Boys' basketball: Point guard Spencer Freedman will spend year in Europe

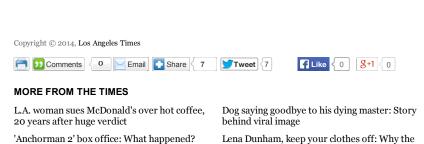

Spencer Freedman, a highly regarded incoming freshman point guard, has decided to delay his first year of high school to enter a study program in Europe.

He played in the Maccabiah Games in Israel this past summer for the USA youth team and indicated that experience helped influence his decision.

He will begin high school next fall, he said.

He was considering Santa Monica, St. Monica and Mater Dei as a possible high school choice.
